God of our ancestors, Lord of the living, who visited Jesus within his grave, and filled him with the fullness of eternal life. Hear our praver this day, as we come to this burial place.

With reverence, we visit this sacred shrine where our loved ones are placed within the womb of the earth, to await the final day of Glory.

Lord, we have come on this pilgrimage of prayer To keep the flame of love alive within our hearts. As we read the names upon these grave stones, We rejoice because those names have been written For all ages in the palm of your divine hand. Amen

Don't miss your chance to relive the decade that defined a generation.

In our readings for today we see that the Word of God is meant not just for those who are baptized but for all peoples who live the gospel values. The one important criterion is belief in God. The first reading from Isaiah clearly tells us that those who live by God's word and are faithful to him will be joyful in his house of prayer as the Lord gathers to his holy mountain all those who live by his precepts. In the gospel we see Jesus encountering a Canaanite woman who asked him to heal her daughter. Despite her ethnicity she professes faith in Christ and her daughter is healed. We must all believe in God and his Word and live lives worthy of the gospel values if we are to be saved.

The second reading from the letter to the Romans tells us that God is always merciful and that this mercy is always available to those who seek it. The mercy of God will always be there for us even if – for a time – we reject God and fail to live as he wants us to live.
